

Modern Mythology Re-Tellings

Spend an entire school year working your way through modern world mythology with fiction and the actual mythology. Strike that. Reverse it.

We'll read the real mythology and then delve into modern historical fiction and see what stays the same and what changes.

This class is suitable for any child over the age of 10, including any interested teens.

Classes to be held each Wednesday at 4:30 pm CST.

We require four students to register before we confirm this class. Refunds will be issued if we do not meet that threshold.

We'll begin our journey in the Smoky Mountains and read both folktales and Willa of Dark Hollow.

We'll then journey back in time to Ancient Mayan and Aztec days before reading The Storm Runner Trilogy.

After the Winter Holidays, we'll cross over to Asia and read Korean Folktales, The Last Fallen Star, and Dragon Pearl.

Finally, we'll round it all up with a journey through India, including folktales, mythology, and all four Aru Shah books.

Camp Half Blood Round Table

Have your kids read The Odyssey? Have they also read (or want to read) The Percy Jackson and the Olympians series?

We're holding a special session of The Bookish Society just for them.

This is a unique opportunity for students worldwide to bond over their shared love and knowledge of the Greek gods,

Is Ares right when he says America is the “best place for sports since Sparta?”

Those are the sorts of hard-hitting conversational prompts you can expect.

We require four students to register before we confirm this class. Refunds will be issued if we do not meet that threshold.

Class dates are tentatively scheduled:

Wednesday at 7:00 pm-8:00 pm CST

Class time will be approximately one hour

Students should be familiar with The Percy Jackson Series, this is an extremely aggressive discussion schedule and THERE WILL BE SPOILERS

We'll meet over Zoom in a password-protected meeting.
